Stockholm, October 23.

ON Saturday the 19th Inſtant, in the Evening, the King of Sweden returned to the Palace here from a Progreſs he had made in the Country. His Majeſty made ſome Stay at Nykoping, in Expectation of being joyned there by his Brother Prince George: But an Account coming in the mean Time of the terrible Calamity that has lately befallen Copenhagen, two Thirds of which City are ſaid to be burnt down, it was therefore judged, that as the Prince was at the Daniſh Court when the Fire happened, he could not in ſo great a Confuſion get an Opportunity to take his Leave of their Daniſh Majeſties ſo ſoon as he otherwiſe deſigned; wherefore the King reſolved to wait no longer for him. There is now Advice, that the Prince having paſſed the Sound this Day Sennight, is upon the Road hither. The Queen of Sweden had laſt Week a Fever that confined her ſome Days to her Bed: But her Majeſty is now ſo well recovered, that ſhe has appeared in Publick ever ſince the King came back. Laſt Sunday this Court laid aſide Mourning for the late Duke of York; and to Day they go into Mourning for the late Queen of Sardinia. On Monday laſt all the Senatours met in Council, the King being preſent.
